Graves County Schools' Paul Schaumburg
Named Administrator of the Year

(Frankfort, Ky) Paul Schaumburg, Graves County Schools' Community Relations Director, was selected as the district level Administrator of the Year by the Kentucky Association of School Administrators. He was presented the award at KASA's 50th Annual Leadership Institute in Louisville, on July 25, 2018.

This award represents the highest honor KASA bestows annually on practicing administrators, recognizing outstanding leadership, significant contributions to the effectiveness of the association, and the honor they bring to themselves, their colleagues, and their profession.

Described by his colleagues as a servant leader who is talented, highly effective, widely respected, and admired by colleagues, students, and parents, Schaumburg serves as both an ambassador and voice of the Graves County Schools. He is a teacher to many when it comes to effective communications and outstanding customer service. Through the years, he has shared thousands of great stories about the district's students and staff through both spoken and written word.

"Paul clearly understands how communication connects us to others, facilitates task achievement, and furthers the goals of district," said Linda Salyer, Public Relations Director, Daviess County Schools. "He maintains the philosophy of going the extra mile by always shining the light on others. He has combined communication and education to make a difference."

KASA's Leadership Awards Program is provided in partnership with American Fidelity Assurance Company.

The Kentucky Association of School Administrators is the largest school administrators' group in Kentucky, representing more than 3,100 education leaders from across the commonwealth. Formed in 1969, KASA connects education leaders to policymakers, legislators, and other interest groups and provides numerous benefits and services to Kentucky's school administrators.
